Philadelphia-Greater Philadelphia's museums offer countless opportunities for remembering, discovering, and learning. During Museum Week, April 27th-May 3rd, over fifty regional museums will offer not just incredible arrays of exhibits and collections, but, for one week only, special discounts on admission, shopping and other amenities.

"Our region stands out for it's incredibly rich selection of museums, science centers, historical sites, and gardens," says Peggy Amsterdam, President of the Greater Philadelphia Cultural Alliance. "From cutting edge art to some of the most historically significant collections in the world, Philadelphia is second to none."

Fifty five regional museums will highlight their collections and exhibits, while offering special discounts during Museum Week. Details on participating museums and special offers are available online at www.phillyfunguide.com/museumweek. A full list of participating museums is below.

Museum Week is being produced in honor of the 2009 American Association of Museums (AAM) Conference, which will be hosted by Philadelphia the first week of May. Over 6000 museums professionals from around the country will descend on Philadelphia to discuss how to remain relevant, real and responsive in today's challenging environment.

"We are delighted that Philadelphia museums are offering these incredible discounts and special offers to the general public during Museum Week," said AAM President Ford Bell. "What a wonderful way to celebrate the incredible value and impact of our country's museums."

Exhibitions of note on view during Museum Week include

- Cezanne and Beyond at the Philadelphia Museum of Art;
- Galileo, Medici and the Age of Astronomy at the Franklin;
- Fulfilling a Prophecy: The Past and Present of the Lenape in Pennsylvania at the Penn Museum;
- From Swords to Plowshares: Metal Trench Art From WWI and WWII at the James A. Michener Museum; and
